

Logistics meets fashion: DHL Express and mybudapester.com create unique sneaker collection for fashion fans

- The ‘DHL 1 Sneaker’: Exclusive collector’s item designed by sneaker icon Hikmet Sugoer
- Registration for purchasing right possible from the 1st September

Bonn, August 29, 2019: When fashion and logistics work together, something very special is usually created. Actually these are special logistics services tailored to the individual needs of the fashion industry, which make it possible for the companies to generate product sales and revenues. Sometimes something unique is created: to mark the occasion of the 50th anniversary of DHL Express, mybudapester.com, retailer for designer brands, and the logistics company DHL Express are launching their own limited sneaker edition. Special features of the yellow-red branded DHL 1 Sneaker: The toe cap is made of recycled "Red Bags", special shipping bags of the global express logistics company. Among other things, they are being used in disaster relief. The tag also comes from DHL and is made from the metal of a 33-year-old Boeing 757 cargo plane. For this creative crossover promotion, mybudapester.com and DHL Express got the urban streetwear icon Hikmet Sugoer on board. "An online shop only works with a reliable and strong shipping partner like DHL Express," says Matthias Nebus, co-founder of mybudapester.com. "With this collaboration, we can now give back part of our success and together with Hikmet we have produced this unique shoe. We want to strengthen our position in the sneaker scene and establish our brand even more. "The DHL 1 Sneaker comes in a limited edition of 300 pairs and costs 300 euros. The purchasing right will be raffled at mybudapester.com, registration is possible from the 1st of September.

The basic model for the DHL 1 Sneaker is the cult shoe "Sonra Proto" by Hikmet Sugoer. Its unique style is also reflected in the distinctive design of the current redesign: The yellow and red of the sporty-elegant shoe represents the colours of DHL Express. The tag contains the unique production number of the limited edition sneaker. The look is finalised by the sole branded with the designer label. The packaging is also a highlight: While the design of the shoe box resembles a DHL shipping box, the shoe bag as well as the toe cap consists of the DHL "Red Bag". "For decades and thanks to our unique logistics network, we have been making designers and fashion labels more successful worldwide because we create tailor-made shipping solutions for our customers," explains Markus Reckling, Managing Director DHL Express Germany. "Celebrating our 50th anniversary this year, we are proud to be part of this creative collaboration, from which this limited sneaker highlight came into being".

Press release

The DHL 1 Sneaker is available exclusively online at mybudapester.com on 20/09, and on 21/09 in the Berlin store at Kurfürstendamm 43.

About DHL:

50 Years DHL

In 2019 DHL is celebrating 50 years since the company's founding by three entrepreneurs in San Francisco in 1969. DHL began as a disruptor to the traditional delivery industry, circumventing bureaucracy with an innovative new service to deliver documents by air overnight. Since then, DHL has grown into a globe-spanning family of DHL companies with about 380,000 employees in over 220 countries and territories that covers the entire spectrum of logistics and supply chain services. DHL's customer-centricity and can-do culture have fueled five decades of innovation – from the DHL 1000, one of the first word processing computers in the world, to using the purpose built StreetScooter, an environmentally friendly delivery vehicle powered by an electric drive and developed by Deutsche Post DHL Group. With the Mission 2050 commitment to reach zero group-wide emissions by 2050, DHL is continuing to be a trailblazer in the logistics industry.
